My comments

The current codes are geared too heavily towards extreme and unrealistic preservation which has a detrimental effect on the commercial viability of this sustainable industry.

There is a disproportionate emphasis on creating exclusion and buffer zones in the PNF/PVP areas which is a small percentage of the entire NSW Native Timber area.

The native timber harvesting industry is being over regulated and misrepresented from this erroneous "green" mentality that is continually presented in the media, often with inaccurate and sensationalised misinformation.

This ridiculous preservation mentality employed by National Parks in particular has contributed to the devastating bushfires in the 2019/2020 season - with disastrous effects to the native timber and wildlife inhabitants supposedly being protected.
